THE BONANZA

1988

Medicine is inherently contradictory. It demands that we allow ourselves to be engulfed by it, through our dedication and commitment, yet ultimately it demands that we resist being engulfed in order to function as effective members of both the medical profession and the human race. This notion is neither subtle nor profound. Indeed, it is something that all of us have been realizing and practicing in our own personal contexts during the past four years. We balanced. We balanced the mandatory aspects of our education with the voluntary. We were told to learn the abdominal wall musculature and cardiovascular physiology, and we did. But no one told us to laugh in anatomy lab, or join student organizations, or provide community services, or raise our children, or fall in love, but we did these things too. And while these other occupations provided relief from the didactic onslaught of our formal education, they were equally important as aspects of our professional and personal development. They were the lighter side - or at least the other side - of our ``medical education.'' So, while we remember in this book what was placed before us in the way of facts and curricula, we remember also what was around us providing context, what was beside us providing relief, and what was behind us providing support.

HUGH D. BENNETT, M.D.

After more than twenty-five years of service, Dr. Hugh D. Bennett will be leaving Hahnemann University this year.

Dr. Bennett graduated from the University of Chicago in 1942. He served with the United States Army for three years in the South Pacific before returning to complete his training in internal medicine at the Chicago Veteran's Administration Hospital. Dr. Bennett subsequently served on the faculties of the Chicago VA, Houston Va, and Case Western Reserve before coming to Hahnemann in 1962. He has served at Hahnemann as Associate Dean, Chairman of the Curriculum Committee, and Dean of Student Affairs.

Throughout his tenure at Hahnemann Medical College and Hahnemann University, Dr. Bennett has acted with fervor and consistency as an advocate for the student body. He has repeatedly backed the students at the risk of alienating administrative powers, and has always conducted his office business with an open door policy all but extinct at Hahnemann. For his devoted service to our class and to the entire Hahnemann community, we offer our sincere thanks, best wishes, and congratulations on a job well done.

After a year of hard work, the last pages of the Medic are finally coming together. Having made it through the times when I wished this position on my worst enemies, through the days of utter frustration and exhaustion: I still feel that this is a full-time job deserving a large salary. However, my strongest thoughts now are of gratitude: to Sue, for being there all the time, to Cammy for offering to help for a few hours, and staying for months, and to Brian for traveling great distances when we needed him. These three plus Evan helped me to develop the theme and to make some tough decisions.

Without them this book would not exist, but the Medic 88 is really a compilation of individual efforts. Many people helped a little here and there: a bit of typing, a night of layout. Taken in sum, they really made a difference. Speaking of which (sums), Al made more money this year than any previous Medic fundraiser. This allowed us to go for the little extras that make the book special.

Finally, thanks to Peter, for supporting me through such a challenging year, and for thinking up a caption for every single photo that I showed him!

"Ordinarily my ratio of concerns is something like this: Fifty per cent work and worry over work, 35% the perpetual struggle against lunacy, 15% a very true and very tender love for those who have been and are close to me as friends and as lover. But (sometimes) the ratio changes to something like this: Work and worry over work, 89%; struggle against lunacy (partly absorbed in the first category) 10%; very true and tender love for lover and friends, 1%. This is my vow:

To perfect my medical art
and never to swerve from it so long as God grants me my office, and to oppose all false medicine and

Then to love the sick, each and all of them,
more than if my own body were at stake.
Not to judge anything superficially,

not to administer any medicine

IF

If you can keep your head when all about you
  Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
  But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
  Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated, don't give way to hating,
  And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise.

If you can dream, and not make dreams your master;
  If you can think, and not make thoughts your aim,
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
  And treat those two imposters just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
  Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
  And stoop and build them up with worn out tools.

If you can make one heap of all your winnings;
  And risk it all on one turn of pitch and toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
  And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and soul and nerve
  To serve your turn long after they are gone
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
  Except the Will which says to them: "Hold on!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
  Or walk with Kings, nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
  If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
  With sixty seconds worth of distance run
Yours is the Earth and all that's in it
  But, what is more, you will be a Man, my son!

Standing in the middle of nowhere
Wondering where to begin;
Lost between tomorrow and yesterday,
Between now and then.
Now we're back where we started
Here we go 'round again . . .

"Good passers make a good team great" - Charles W. Curtis

"Gatsby believed in the green light, the orgiastic future that year by year recedes before us. It eluded us then, but that's no matter — tomorrow we will run faster, stretch out our arms farther . . . . So we beat on, boats against the current, borne back ceaselessly into the past."
- From THE GREAT GATSBY by F. Scott Fitzgerald

"It's almost impossible to remember how tragic the world is when one is playing basketball."

Emily: "Oh, earth, you're too wonderful for anybody to realize you. Do any human beings ever realize life while they live it? — every, every minute?"
Stage Manager: "No. The saints and the poets, maybe - they do some."
- from OUR TOWN by Thorton Wilder

Garcin: "So this is hell. I'd never have believed it. You remember all we were told about the torture-chambers, the fire and brimstone, the 'burning marl'. Old wives' tales! There's no need for red-hot pokers. Hell is — other people."
- From NO EXIT by Jean-Paul Sartre

"There was an old owl who lived in an oak;
the more he saw, the less he spoke.
The less he spoke, the more he heard;
why can't we all be more like that wise old bird."

HAHNEMANN NIGHT LIVE!

Months of preparation and hours of rehearsal were momentarily forgotten as Anaerobic Infection's first chords silenced the audience. Rick Kinnard's guitar crescendoed as Al Radkowsky announced the cast of faculty about to be mimicked. Almost two hours later the Class of 88's Freshman Show was a success beyond expectations.

The previous shows had been held during lunch hour; now that event was transformed into an elegant multimedia event with a live band, skits and audio and video vignettes. Memorable bits include ''Biochemistry'' recited by Drew Pagliaro and the show-stopping portrayal of R. Peter Meyer by Mark Stoecker.

Perhaps more important than the show itself was the camaraderie generated with the more than 40 classmates who directly participated in preparation and performances. Every class member left with a feeling of pride.

One year later, with a proven track record, expectations were high. Once again the audience was treated to a night of humor and mischief. Mayer Rashtian's rendition of Sydney Finkelstein's ''Brain Injury Induced by Golf'' and Sheila Burick as Sheila Katz in ''Medical Poetry Minute'' were highlights, and the truth about the mysterious Ninth Floor was revealed.

The technical aspect was superior to the previous year, but the shock value of the unexpected was less. No one can say for sure which show was better, but one thing is certain: the Class of 88 changed the level of quality of Hahnemann Follies forever.

Yearbook

The Blue House at Sayre

into the Great Unknown.

This yearbook is essentially a collage without the wall-space: A largely pictorial essay on some of our collective experience of the past four years. They were a challenging four years, both academically and personally, but we met the challenge. We graduated medical school, but equally importantly we maintained our priorities, our sense of self, and our sense of humor. So now medical school is over, but the challenge has only increased. In the demanding and competitive contest of residency and after-life, the task of balancing professional and personal aspects will be formidable indeed. Fortunately we have already learned to balance, as the memories contained herein testify. What remains is improving proficiency. So good luck, congratulations, but mostly, well done.

"One of the things the average doctor doesn't have time to do is catch up with the things he didn't learn in school, and one of the things he didn't learn in school is the nature of human society, its purpose, its history, and its needs . . . If medicine is necessarily a mystery to the average man, nearly everything else is necessarily a mystery to the average doctor."

Milton Mayer.

We're moving right along! From the horse-drawn ambulance of the 1890s to the 1912 Packard ... to the University MedEvac helicopter ... we have been bringing our patients in style ... to the best possible care available. In the 1890s it was antiseptic surgery, tender care and concern ... today it is MRI and transplants and Ampligen ... in 2000 what will it be?

You will provide the answers. You have been educated to move medicine into the 21st century, to develop the techniques and the materials for even better health and to provide them always with the same care and concern.

Take with you our admiration
And our best wishes as you advance in your profession.

Personal attention matters.

So does hands-on experience.

A Hahnemann affiliate offering
3rd-year surgical rotations,
4th-year internal medicine
electives, and medical
and surgical residencies.

Especially with the wide variety of clinical pathology diagnosed and treated at Easton Hospital's state-of-the-art facility.

Consequently, our medical and surgical graduates are well-prepared for boards and also subspecialty training, if they so choose

What's more is that young physicians seeking to start a practice find the area surrounding Easton a "land of opportunity," yet close to Philadelphia and NYC.

Easton Hospital believes in treating its residents and medical students like its patients — we care about your welfare

SERVING PHILADELPHIA FOR OVER 30 YEARS

At St. Francis Health System, your health is our business.

IT'S COMFORTING TO KNOW THAT when you're sick someone nearby is in the business of caring for you.

St. Francis Medical Center, a component of St. Francis Health System, provides state-of-the-art medical care Located four miles from downtown Pittsburgh, the hospital offers more than 200 beds in a separate psychiatric facility and the largest Department of Rehabilitation Medicine between Philadelphia and Chicago. New facilities for Emergency and Outpatient Services (including same day surgery) are strengths of its medical-surgical section. A joint venture of nine area hospitals for home care originated at St. Francis. Its Division of Cardiology is the only local program complete with every available diagnostic tool including heart catheterization. As the first hospital in Pittsburgh to treat cancer with a betatron, our oncology program still ranks among the best in the area. The Department of Diagnostic Radiology was the first in the city to add a CT scanner to its battery of equipment. Our ophthalmologists were among the first nationally to implant intraocular lens. The first endourology service in the city for the removal of kidney stones without surgery was opened here The Chemical Dependency Program is one of the most comprehensive in the nation, treating mothers-to-be, senior citizens, adolescents and adults. St. Francis opened the first Premenstrual Syndrome (PMS) unit in Pittsburgh and an Eating Disorders Unit for adults with anorexia, bulemia and obesity.

The largest medical center in Western Pennsylvania, St. Francis is a teaching hospital with eight residency programs.

- Transitional Program
- Internal Medicine
- Diagnostic Radiology
- Psychiatry
- Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery
- Ophthalmology
- Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation
- A Fellowship in Cardiology

St. Francis also conducts accredited schools for registered nurses, licensed practical nurses, respiratory care technicians and nurse anesthetists.

CAREMARK

Our new name is Caremark Homecare.
When Travacare and Caremark merged,
we found something important in common.

Care. And so when it came to selecting the name for the leading company to serve home health care, we chose Caremark Homecare. A name that reflects the commitment our two companies have long shared. A commitment to care.

And now the Caremark name means more than ever before. Because now it includes all the people and resources of Travacare Home Therapy as well.

So take a good close look at our new company. You'll see a lot more capability.

And a lot more care.

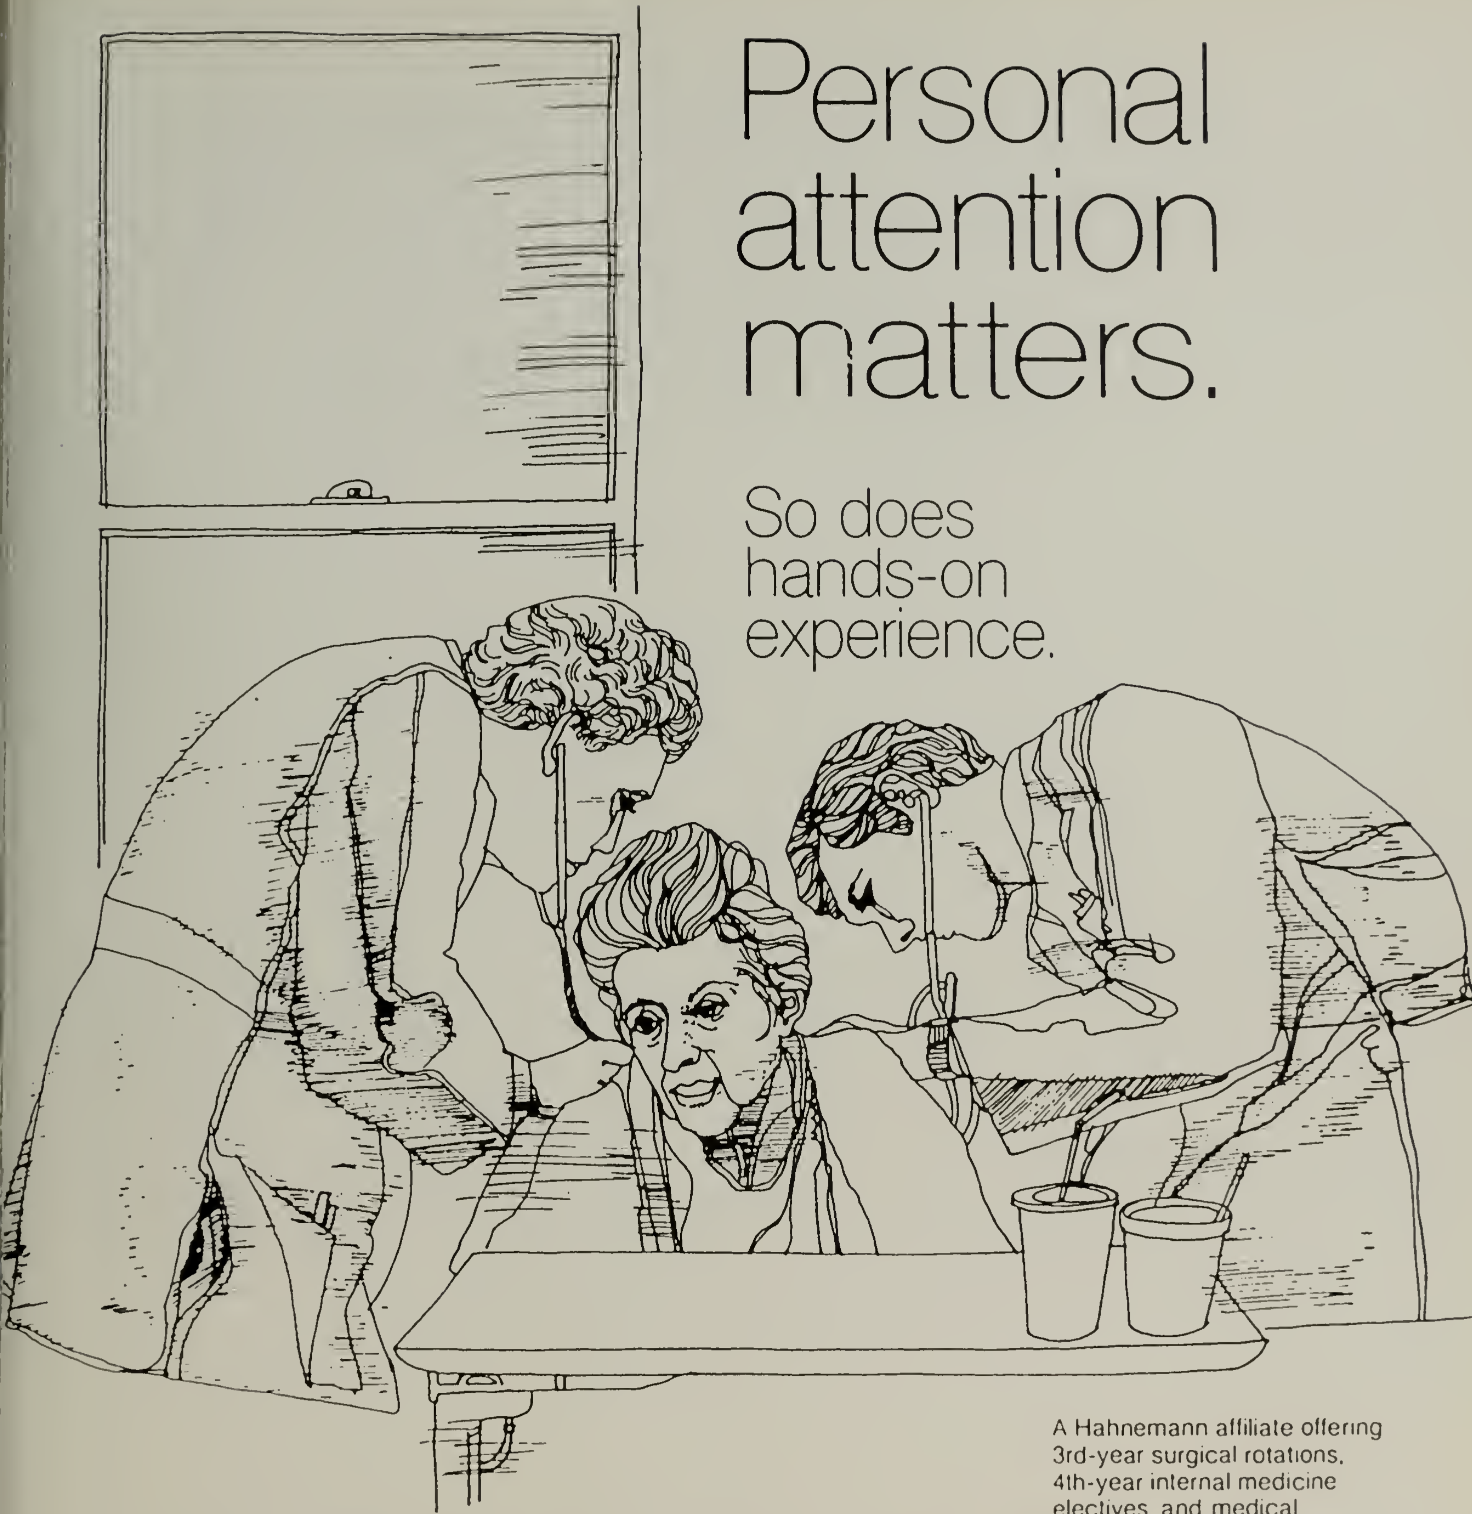
Personal attention matters.

So does hands-on experience.



A Hahnemann affiliate offering
3rd-year surgical rotations,
4th-year internal medicine
electives, and medical
and surgical residencies.

Especially with the wide variety of clinical pathology diagnosed and treated at Easton Hospital's state-of-the-art facility.

Consequently, our medical and surgical graduates are well-prepared for boards and also subspecialty training, if they so choose.

What's more is that young physicians seeking to start a practice find the area surrounding Easton a "land of opportunity," yet close to Philadelphia and NYC.

Easton Hospital believes in treating its residents and medical students like its patients — we care about your welfare.

Call Dr. Kenneth Wildrick, Director of the Department of Medicine,

JOHN F. SMITH

1933-1987

``Hi, Doc. How are you?'' Close your eyes, and you can still see and hear John F. Smith in the Stiles lobby. How good that sounded to a first-year medical student, especially after a rough exam.

In all ways, John was The Indispensable Man. Nothing was ever too much for him. With his sudden passing, students have lost one of their greatest friends and Hahnemann one of its finest, most dedicated employees. Life at Stiles will never be the same.

May God rest John's soul in peace, and may his loving family and many, many friends be spared further sorrow in the years to come.
